

STATE POLICEMAN
SAYS OFFICER'S LIFE
IS "HE-MAN'S TASK"

Sergeant Fred H. Schultz, New Jersey State Police, Speaks At Doylestown

ADDRESSES KIWANIS

Pays Tribute to Kiwanis Club For Interest in Under-Privileged Children

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 9.—The life of a State Policeman is a "he-man's" task, members of the Kiwanis Club of Doylestown learned Tuesday night at the weekly dinner meeting held at the Doylestown Inn, when Sergeant Fred H. Schultz, of the Bureau of Identification, New Jersey State Police, addressed the club.

The guest speaker was the personal representative of Colonel Mark Kimberling, superintendent of the New Jersey State Police. He was introduced by Kiwanian Nate Gorelick, a member of the personal committee who secured him.

In his opening remarks, Sergeant Schultz, a veteran of the force, paid a tribute to the Kiwanis Club of Doylestown and to Kiwanian Gorelick for the interest they have shown in underprivileged child work. He especially expressed appreciation for Colonel Kimberling to Kiwanian Gorelick and his efforts in making the annual State Police Christmas party for underprivileged children at Wilburtha Barracks, N. J., an outstanding success. Sergeant Schultz invited members of the club to attend the party and "look in" on one of the most impressive parties of its kind in all of New Jersey on the afternoon of December 24. Troopers in troop cars cover hundreds of miles in the rural sections and bring the kiddies to the Wilburtha Barracks for the party.

The training of a New Jersey State trooper was outlined in detail by the guest speaker, who later emphasized the importance of finger-printing.

Twenty New Jersey State troopers have lost their lives in line of duty during the sixteen years the Force has been organized, Sergeant Schultz announced. Some have been killed instantly while others have died from injuries.

The service was started in September, 1921 with 140 men. Training at the school continues for three months, with only one pass during that time. Details start at 5:30 a. m. and continue until 8:30 p. m. Students take care of the horses the first thing, then eat breakfast, follow up with a cross-country run which at first is but a half-mile but later a 5-mile run. This is followed by a solid hour of calisthenics, then classes in criminal law, fencing, wrestling and other details.

Seventy-six candidates graduated from the first class of 140 men. The twenty-sixth class of the New Jersey State Police training school graduated last June.

In 1929 the force was doubled to 280 troopers with sub-stations and headquarters in Trenton. Later the state had three troop headquarters.

Troopers are on duty 24 hours a day, subject to call at any time, with four days a month off and two nights a week off.

That the life of a State trooper is a very dangerous job was clearly illustrated by Sergeant Schultz when he told of the manner in which a number of his associates have been killed in line of duty.

The New Jersey State Police now has a complete detective bureau attached to each troop headquarters. There is a separate automobile bureau that handles stolen cars and other automobile violations. There is a very well organized safety bureau and safety patrol in the rural sections working for the protection of school children. The telephone bureau with headquarters in Trenton is hooked up with seven other states. There is also a separate firearms division.

The identification bureau with which Sergeant Schultz is connected takes

George School Student

NEWTOWN, Dec. 9.—Physicians are baffled by the death of Donald Darlington, 15, George School freshman, who died Monday at the Abington Hospital. He was the adopted son of Miss Frances White, Cardington, Pa.

He was removed to the school infirmary and an alarmingly high fever developed which refused to yield to treatment. The school doctor and a consulting physician decided on his removal to Abington Hospital, Saturday night.

A post mortem was held and a rare type of peritonitis was indicated concerning which little is known.

SELLERSVILLE FIXES SPEED LIMIT AT 35 MILES
PER HOUR THROUGH THE BOROUGH; DOYLESTOWN
FIRE COMPANY PURCHASES TWO EXTINGUISHERS

State Highway at Sellersville Creates A Serious Traffic Problem

TO IMPROVE PLANT

Perkasie Advised That $100,000 Will Have To Be Expended On Light Plant

Thirty-five miles per hour will be the legal speed limit for motorists in Sellersville as the result of a resolution passed at the meeting of Borough Council. Previously the speed limit had been 25 miles an hour, but that law was rendered ineffective as soon as the State raised the speed limit to 50 miles an hour several months ago.

According to the State Highway manual, the law provides that townships and boroughs must set a maximum of either 25 or 35 miles per hour, and then erect warning signs every eighth of a mile on each side of the street.

At a meeting of the Doylestown Fire Company, two extinguishers, one of which contains carbon dioxide and the other carbon tetrachloride, were purchased.

The purchase of the two latest type extinguishers will enable the County Seat firemen to better fight oil heater blazes and fire which is caused by electrical equipment. The extinguishers are designed to extinguish the fire and not do as much damage as other acids used in subduing blazes.

There were about 25 firemen present, and bills amounting to $36.75 were ordered paid.

One application for membership was received.

Six fires were reported during November, including grass fires at the Chapman Swimming Pool, Jamison and Warrington, two chimney fires, and the burning of a tar barrel on Decatur street.

Close to $100,000 worth of improvements and additions were recommended to bring the Perkasie municipal electric light plant up to a high degree of efficiency, at the December meeting of Perkasie Borough Council.

A report was presented on a recent survey made by the Philadelphia Engineering Company, on the needs of the existing plant to meet an increased peak in the future and to increase efficiency.

The cost of the improvements, de-

WOMEN SEE FAULTS IN
"PROPORTIONAL" SYSTEM

Mrs. Maude E. R. Stuckert, Newtown, Explains Such At Co. Council Meeting

REPUBLICANS GATHER

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Maude E. R. Stuckert, Newtown, one of Bucks County's best informed women on political science, gave a clear, concise, enlightening talk on "Proportional Representation," when members of Bucks County Council of Republican Women met in the country club here yesterday afternoon.

The speaker stated that it was her belief that proportional representation is a good thing to pass up at the present time, and members present agreed with her.

Mrs. Stuckert told that she liked some features of this form of representation, but added "if there is a reason for fraud under the present system of majority rule and under the present system of counting of votes, there is a greater chance for fraud in proportional representation."

This system, it was recalled, was used in New York City at the November election for election of council members, and it usually deals with city and town councils.

Under this theory there is equal representation instead of majority rule. It was explained that if Republicans should poll 75 per cent and Democrats 25 per cent of the vote, there will be that proportion of representation in council.

Proportional representation believes, Mrs. Stuckert stated, the right of the decision is in the majority, but the right of representation is for all parties. "If the minority party is represented by one, on borough council for instance, this is more to be desired than that party not being represented at all."

The women were informed that proportional representation is linked up with a very strange system of voting. Instead of placing an "X" after the

Georgia Solons
Hit "Profit" Tax

ATLANTA, Dec. 9.—(INS)—The Georgia State Legislature, by special resolution, recently adopted declares that the federal tax on undistributed net income of corporations is harmful to new and growing industries.

Industry has expanded rapidly in the South in recent years. As a result, many of its companies put profits back into the business to expand and supply new jobs instead of distributing them to stockholders. The Georgia Legislature's resolution says:

"The U. S. Revenue Act of 1936 imposes upon all undistributed profits of corporations a tax which virtually forces the distribution of said profits."

"Such distribution often weakens the financial structure of these corporations and makes it impossible for them to expand plants and replace obsolete machinery."

"Small, growing businesses, faced with the necessity of plant expansion and debt retirement, must pay a prohibitive cost under this tax to maintain and improve their position."

The resolution was sent to U. S. Senator George in Washington, who was one of the original opponents of the tax.

DATE SET IS DEC. 22ND

MORRISVILLE, Dec. 9.—The Fathers' Association is planning a children's Christmas party to be held in the high school auditorium Wednesday evening, December 22nd. The invitation will include all children from the first to the fifth grades inclusive.

The committee arranging details for this annual party includes William Schofield, chairman; John Tiernan and Markus Ketchum.

Neal Nolan, president of the association since its organization, was again nominated for that post. The report of the nominating committee, headed by Joseph Bucknum, included all the old officers with the exception of Charles Merrell, recording secretary, who declined because of his residence in Trenton. Those nominated aside from Nolan are: Vice presidents, Francis A. Smith and William H. Howell; recording secretary, Walter Koons; financial secretary, Albert Ettenger; treasurer, C. Marvin Young.

A report was given by William H. Howell, chairman of the football committee, which showed total receipts at the Bristol game as $858.15. Players on the football team were introduced.

The address was given by J. Goodner Gill, dean of Rider College. There was a program of vaudeville and music by the high school band, under leadership of Miss Catherine Moyer.

On "Bellyaching"

THE "don't irritate him or he may pull the pillars of the temple down" idea was brought into the open Tuesday night by Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy, "The Miracle Man," who, in a speech before the Economic Club in New York, fiercely chided those who disagreed with the President for saying so. He is, Mr. Kennedy unnecessarily asserted, "there for three more years anyhow," and it "isn't going to get you anywhere to bellyache" or to say that "Roosevelt is no good."

SANTA CLAUS WRITES A LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE

Invites All Boys and Girls To Visit Him in Bristol and Tell of Desires

BUSINESSMEN INVITE

Mill Street Business Men's Association today made public the letter received from Santa Claus, this being in response to the invitation issued by the association for the jolly old fellow to visit Bristol for the Christmas season.

The letter, in which Santa Claus tells of his desire for all boys and girls of the section to visit him at his headquarters, 217 Mill street, at the hours given, follows:

Mill Street Business Men's Association.
Bristol, Pa.
Dear Friends:

It was with great pleasure that I accepted your invitation to come to Bristol and establish headquarters there until after the Christmas holidays. I will arrive Friday evening, December 10th, at seven o'clock. Due to uncertain weather conditions I have decided to travel by automobile and thus avoid disappointing the hundreds of my little friends who I expect to be on hand to greet me.

I had at first expected to travel by airplane and in fact had partly completed the arrangements, but then decided that perhaps the weather might be inclement and I would not be able to arrive on time. So I will use one of my automobiles to make the trip.

I am greatly pleased to find that the American Legion Cadets are going to meet me and act as an escort. Those cadets are a fine bunch of boys and I feel honored in having them to escort me. I know you folks down in Bristol must just love those cadets. They have such a snappy look; and my, how they can play those instruments. You know up here at the North Pole we don't get much chance to see parades and I am very anxious to see those Cadets as they march down the street, on Friday evening.

It was certainly thoughtful of you

LEARNING TO READ

Most remarkable achievement of mankind was learning to read. Taken for granted as it is, reading is really an extraordinary process of converting symbols, by way of sight and interpretation and understanding, into ideas and emotions. It is by reading, moreover, that ideas may be exchanged and emotions shared without regard to time and space, so that the knowledge of mankind may increase and the thoughts of men live long after them.

It is no exaggeration to say, therefore, that "the business of the social is to teach people to read." Dr. Stella S. Center, of New York, offered this opinion to the National Council of Teachers of English, meeting in Buffalo.

She meant much more, of course, than teaching the art of reading to little children, though Dr. Samuel Johnson believed that "you have done a great thing when you have brought a boy to have entertainment from a book." You have done more than that. You have given him the key to a cupboard which will never be bare, if he uses it wisely.

Dr. Center was pleading for better reading, for adult reading, for careful and thoughtful reading, which becomes more difficult as reading is challenged and crowded by other entertainments. And Dr. Center speaks painful truth when she says that something is wrong with a system of education which turns out pupils "who take little satisfaction in reading and depend chiefly on motion-pictures and the radio for intellectual stimulus."

Good reading demands good taste and good judgment and a sense of values. These are hard things to learn. Nor are they learned by rubbing the pupil's nose on good literature in the hope that some of it may stick.

Learning to read wisely and well does not come by nature, any more than a child learns to read without patient teaching of alphabet, spelling and the meanings of words.

INVESTOR WANTS SAFETY FIRST

Depression has taught one thing of ineluctable value—that speculation is for those who can afford to lose—a category in which very few persons have a place. Securities are subject to their own laws of gravity, no matter what we thought in the boom days, and what goes up it always likely to come down.

The average American, as a result, is turning resolutely to investments which provide the maximum of security for principal. Profit is of secondary consideration. He is seeking means of investment whereby his savings may be spread about widely among basic, essential industries—industries which will weather the economic storms and eventually come out with colors flying. He knows that he is not saving for today, but for tomorrow, when his earning power will decline, and dollars will be very difficult to come by.

This attitude, shared as it is by the great bulk of average citizens, promises well for the national future. Whatever the plan adopted, the trend, toward safety presents a splendid illustration of American thrift, wisdom and downright common-sense.

What a world! Here we buried the forces of reaction under a landslide and a lot of problems aren't solved yet.

FILM CAREERS ARE OFTEN MADE BY "BREAKS" OF GAME

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9.—(INS)—Odd little accidents like falling in love or accidentally spoiling a scene can have a potent effect on careers in Hollywood. These and many other paradoxical "breaks" have launched stars, directors, cameramen and others to fame.

For instance, William Daniels probably never would have been Garbo's cameraman if he hadn't fallen in love at college. Attending University of Southern California, studying engineering, he fell in love with a pretty girl, so bought a dollar camera to snap pictures of her. This led to an interest in photography that eventually led to his becoming a cameraman. The co-ed, incidentally, is now Mrs. Daniels.

George Folsey, ace cameraman, got his break when he was assigned as assistant to a temperamental cameraman. In the middle of the picture the experimental one decided to quit, go back to his native land and raise violins. Folsey carried on, and did such good work that he was promoted to first cameraman, and has since photographed almost every great star in Hollywood.

James Wong Howe was a light-weight prizefighter in Seattle, came to Los Angeles to fight, met another fighter who was an assistant cameraman between fights. Thus he got a job as assistant cameraman. Mary Miles Minter, playing with a cat, was scared on the cheek. The scratch-out showed through the make-up.

Howe got an idea, bought a spectacle lens from an optometrist on Hollywood Boulevard, put it over the regular lens to "smooth" the image. Producers raved over the resulting quality of "diffused" close-ups, never before seen on the screen, where up to that time everything was in "sharp" focus. Howe's fortune was made overnight by a half-dollar bit of glass and an idea.

Norma Shearer, standing in a line of extras, coughed nervously and it attracted the attention of a director. She was singled out for a "bit," and this started her career to stardom. Clark Gable, seen on the stage by Lionel Barrymore, and tested, was offered a part and asked if he could ride a horse. He couldn't, but said he could, practiced secretly for a couple of days at a riding academy, and this started him toward his present zenith.

Clarence Brown was an assistant director with Maurice Tourneur. The other assistant was John Gilbert. Brown was offered a chance to direct if he could find a good story. Gilbert promptly scripted "The Great Redeemer" for him. It was a hit. Brown became an ace director. Gilbert's writing talent was discovered, but he returned to acting and won stardom.

Sam Wood was an assistant to Cecil B. DeMille. One day he decked a toy rocking-horse up with a feather duster as a "rag." DeMille saw it, laughed, and gave Wood a picture to direct.

Errol Taggart was a film cutter.

Working on the set with Tod Brodington, he began also to assist the director, became an assistant, then a director in his own right. Edward Brophy was a production manager. On location with Buster Keaton's "The Cameraman," Brophy forgot to call a certain actor. So director Edward Sedgwick made him take the forgotten actor's place in scenes with Keaton. Audiences roared. Brophy became so much in demand as a comedian that he forsook production work. His latest role was the comedy convict in "The Last Gangster."

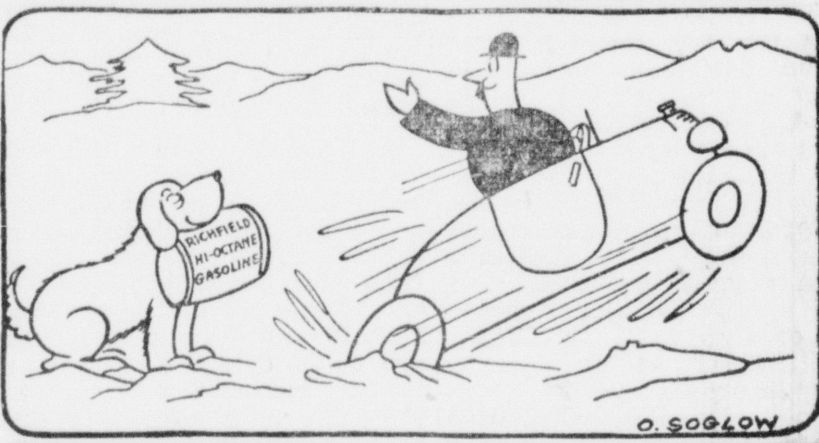

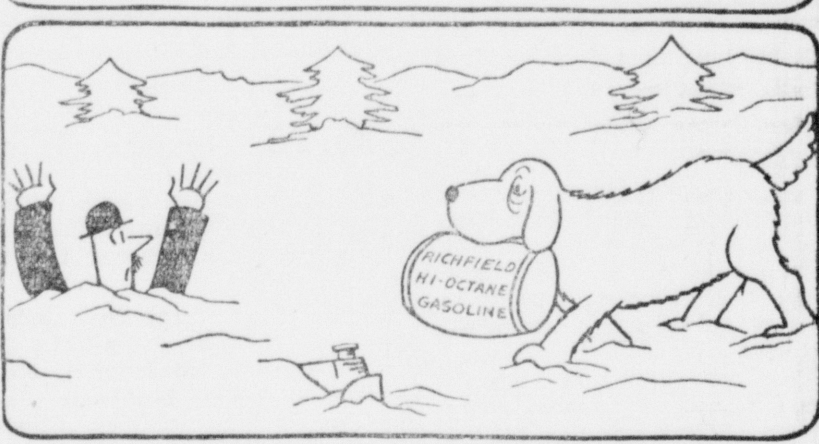

NEW BRITAIN, Conn.—(INS)—Nero may have fiddled while Rome burned, but John Nissen "burned"

TOWN CRIER'S BELL RINGS OUT HEALTH

Millions of Town Criers on
Christmas Seals to Fight
Tuberculosis

ON SALE IN BUCKS CO.

Millions of Town Criers on millions of Christmas Seals, weapons in the fight to control tuberculosis, are being started on their life-saving mission by home and business places in this county and throughout Pennsylvania.

This statement was made today by the Bucks County Tuberculosis Society in explaining that "the chief concern of the men and women connected with the tuberculosis societies is to fight tuberculosis in its early stage. In spite of the steady improvement in diagnostic methods only a small percentage of cases admitted to sanatoria are in the early stages.

"Dr. C. C. Custer, medical director of the Mont Alto State Sanatorium, in addressing physicians from various sanatoria and clinics, urged a more vigorous campaign to find and diagnose tuberculosis cases earlier. He said at Mont Alto 60 per cent of the cases admitted are in the moderately or farther advanced stages, although that institution is supposed to accept only cases in the early stages. He reported that in one Pennsylvania city 83 per cent of the tuberculosis cases were not diagnosed until they had reached the advanced stage.

"This situation means that there are far too many unrecognized cases of tuberculosis in the community infecting members of their families and neighbors. Suspicious cases should be examined promptly, and examinations should be made even where the disease is not suspected. To make the disease preventable and curable it is essential that there be early examination, skillful diagnosis and prompt treatment.

"The Town Crier on the Christmas Seal is ringing his bell to summon all citizens to the battle against tuberculosis. Citizens have generously aided in this campaign and now have another opportunity to continue their interest and valuable assistance."

NEW KITCHEN GADGETS

One of the latest shopping temptations in New York City is a "kitchen gadget bar." The Englishman who revels in an egg-cup may like a scissor-like arrangement that snips off the top of his three-minute egg, leaving no crumbs of shell to crunch on. "Lemon-aid" is a small stand with a spike which holds a lemon quarter. There are leaf-shaped sides, which squeeze the lemon without messing up the hands.

Tongs are not limited to fireplaces these days. There are metal tongs in numerous sizes, designed to lift anything from a slice of pie to a three-inch steak.

Many a cook who revels in pastry-making will fall for the combination slicer and spatula, which is saw-toothed to cut rinds easily. The end of this gadget widens out to make a spreader that simplifies sandwich preparation and cake icing.

Do you need aid with your housework? Secure it through a "Female Help Wanted" advertisement in The Bristol Courier. The cost is small, and many are in search of work.

The Great Game of Politics

This is not only ridiculous on its face, but it certainly makes Mr. Roosevelt out a pretty poor specimen of a man. If they were sure Mr. Kennedy is right—or if they felt he was in position to guarantee performance—it is certain that at least ninety-nine per cent of the business and journalistic critics of Mr. Roosevelt would not hesitate a minute to put on the livery of hypocrisy and laud him to the skies. If it will pull us out of a depression, restore the national solvency and recover governmental sanity there are few of those opposed to Mr. Roosevelt who would not be willing to go forth at high noon on the public highway and proclaim their belief that he is the greatest President, the most inspired leader and the wisest man who ever sat in the White House; that all his acts are good and he never made a mistake in his life.

IF THAT IS the way to solve the grave problems that now threaten the nation, only the most stupid and bitter would be unwilling to pay the price. But, there are two reasons for not accepting that idea as sound. One is because it is hard to assume that Mr. Roosevelt is quite as small and vindictive a man as Mr. Kennedy seems to imply. The other is because if he is that kind of a man there is no reliance to be placed in him at all and to yes, yes him would only make conditions worse. A far better thing for Mr. Kennedy to suggest is for Mr. Roosevelt's opponents to support him wholeheartedly in every effort he makes to do the things they believe right, but continue to oppose him as strongly as they know how when he goes in the directions they believe dangerous and acts upon the counsel of other "close friends" who sometimes are more potent with the President than Mr. Kennedy.

IT IS FINE to have Mr. Kennedy in Washington. His influence has been good, but his advice is bad. He can call opposition "belly-aching" if he likes, but a lot of people hadn't bellyached in this country, we would today have a packed Supreme Court and a Government reorganized in such a way as to make opposing the President not only futile but unhealthy for the opponents. If it were not for the "bellyachers" there would be today no check at all on Federal spending, no sentiment against complete regimentation, nothing to retard our headlong plunge into inflation and ruin. Moreover, Mr. Kennedy knows it. He says that he was an "enthusiast for the New Deal" and still is, implying, of course, that he has been for all the major New Deal policies. This will be real news to some of his friends, who were under the impression that there were times when Mr. Kennedy felt that certain New Deal policies were very bad, and "bellyached" about them very loudly indeed. Of course, men may change their minds, but there is reason to believe that Mr. Kennedy did not think of the full implications of his remarks and that they illustrate once more the unwisdom of a public man making spontaneous speeches.

FOR EXAMPLE, there was that little touch in which he spoke of

LEARNING TO READ

Most remarkable achievement of mankind was learning to read. Taken for granted as it is, reading is really an extraordinary process of converting symbols, by way of sight and interpretation and understanding, into ideas and emotions. It is by reading, moreover, that ideas may be exchanged and emotions shared without regard to time and space, so that the knowledge of mankind may increase and the thoughts of men live long after them.

It is no exaggeration to say, therefore, that "the business of the social is to teach people to read." Dr. Stella S. Center, of New York, offered this opinion to the National Council of Teachers of English, meeting in Buffalo.

She meant much more, of course, than teaching the art of reading to little children, though Dr. Samuel Johnson believed that "you have done a great thing when you have brought a boy to have entertainment from a book." You have done more than that. You have given him the key to a cupboard which will never be bare, if he uses it wisely.

Dr. Center was pleading for better reading, for adult reading, for careful and thoughtful reading, which becomes more difficult as reading is challenged and crowded by other entertainments. And Dr. Center speaks painful truth when she says that something is wrong with a system of education which turns out pupils "who take little satisfaction in reading and depend chiefly on motion-pictures and the radio for intellectual stimulus."

Good reading demands good taste and good judgment and a sense of values. These are hard things to learn. Nor are they learned by rubbing the pupil's nose on good literature in the hope that some of it may stick.

Learning to read wisely and well does not come by nature, any more than a child learns to read without patient teaching of alphabet, spelling and the meanings of words.

INVESTOR WANTS SAFETY FIRST

Depression has taught one thing of incalculable value—that speculation is for those who can afford to lose—a category in which very few persons have a place. Securities are subject to their own laws of gravity no matter what we thought in the boom days, and what goes up is always likely to come down.

The average American, as a result, is turning reluctantly to investments which provide the maximum of security for principal. Profit is of secondary consideration. He is seeking means of investment whereby his savings may be spread about widely among basic, essential industries—industries which will weather the economic storms, and eventually come out with colors flying. He knows that he is not saving for today, but for tomorrow, when his earning power will decline, and dollars will be very difficult to come by.

This attitude, shared as it is by the great bulk of average citizens, promises well for the national future. Whatever the plan adopted, the trend, toward safety presents a splendid illustration of American thrift, wisdom and downright common-sense.

What a world! Here we buried the forces of reaction under a landslide and a lot of problems aren't solved yet.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9.—(INS)—Odd little accidents like falling in love or accidentally spoiling a scene can have a potent effect on careers in Hollywood. These and many other paradoxical "breaks" have launched stars, directors, cameramen and others to fame.

TOWN CRIER'S BELL RINGS OUT HEALTH

Millions of Town Criers on
Christmas Seals to Fight
Tuberculosis

ON SALE IN BUCKS CO.

Millions of Town Criers on millions of Christmas Seals, weapons in the fight to control tuberculosis, are being started on their life-saving mission by home and business places in this county and throughout Pennsylvania.

This statement was made today by the Bucks County Tuberculosis Society in explaining that "the chief concern of the men and women connected with the tuberculosis societies is to fight tuberculosis in its early stage. In spite of the steady improvement in diagnostic methods only a small percentage of cases admitted to sanatoria are in the early stages.

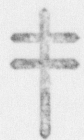

"Dr. C. C. Custer, medical director of the Mont Alto State Sanatorium, in addressing physicians from various sanatoria and clinics, urged a more vigorous campaign to find and diagnose tuberculosis cases earlier. He said at Mont Alto 60 per cent of the cases admitted are in the moderately or farther advanced stages, although that institution is supposed to accept only cases in the early stages. He reported that in one Pennsylvania city 83 per cent of the tuberculosis cases were not diagnosed until they had reached the advanced stage.

"This situation means that there are far too many unrecognized cases of tuberculosis in the community infecting members of their families and neighbors. Suspicious cases should be examined promptly, and examinations should be made even where the disease is not suspected. To make the disease preventable and curable it is essential that there be early examination, skillful diagnosis and prompt treatment.

"The Town Crier on the Christmas Seal is ringing his bell to summon all citizens to the battle against tuberculosis. Citizens have generously aid-

NEW KITCHEN GADGETS

One of the latest shopping temptations in New York City is a "kitchen gadget bar." The Englishman who revels in an egg-cup may like a scissor-like arrangement that snips off the top of his three-minute egg, leaving no crumbs of shell to crunch on.

"Lemon-aid" is a small stand with a spike which holds a lemon quarter. There are leaf-shaped sides, which squeeze the lemon without messing up the hands.

Tongs are not limited to fireplaces these days. There are metal tongs in numerous sizes, designed to lift anything from a slice of pie to a three-inch steak.

Many a cook who revels in pastry-making will fall for the combination slicer and spatula, which is saw-toothed to cut rinds easily. The end of this gadget widens out to make a spreader that simplifies sandwich preparation and cake icing.

Do you need aid with your house work? Secure it through a "Female Help Wanted" advertisement in The Bristol Courier. The cost is small, and many are in search of work.

This is not only ridiculous on its face, but it certainly makes Mr. Roosevelt out a pretty poor specimen of a man. If they were sure Mr. Kennedy is right—or if they felt he was in position to guarantee performance—it is certain that at least ninety-nine per cent of the business and journalistic critics of Mr. Roosevelt would not hesitate a minute to put on the livery of hypocrisy and laud him to the skies. If it will pull us out of a depression, restore the national solvency and recover governmental sanity there are few of those opposed to Mr. Roosevelt who would not be willing to go forth at high noon on the public highway and proclaim their belief that he is the greatest President, the most inspired leader and the wisest man who ever sat in the White House; that all his acts are good and he never made a mistake in his life.

IF THAT IS the way to solve the grave problems that now threaten the nation, only the most stupid and bitter would be unwilling to pay the price. But, there are two reasons for not accepting that idea as sound. One is because it is hard to assume that Mr. Roosevelt is quite as small and vindictive a man as Mr. Kennedy seems to imply. The other is because if he is that kind of a man there is no reliance to be placed in him at all and to yes, yes him would only make conditions worse. A far better thing for Mr. Kennedy to suggest is for Mr. Roosevelt's opponents to support him wholeheartedly in every effort he makes to do the things they believe right but continue to oppose him as strongly as they know how when he goes in the directions they believe dangerous and acts upon the counsel of other "close friends" who sometimes are more potent with the President than Mr. Kennedy.

IT IS FINE to have Mr. Kennedy in Washington. His influence has been good, but his advice is bad. He can call opposition "belly-aching" if he likes, but it is a lot of people hadn't bellyached in this country, we would today have a packed Supreme Court and a Government reorganized in such a way as to make opposing the President not only futile but unhealthy for the opponents. If it were not for the "bellyachers" there would be today no check at all on Federal spending, no sentiment against complete regimentation, nothing to retard our headlong plunge into inflation and ruin. Moreover, Mr. Kennedy knows it. He says that he was an "enthusiast for the New Deal" and still is, implying, of course, that he has been for all the major New Deal policies. This will be real news to some of his friends, who were under the impression that there were times when Mr. Kennedy felt that certain New Deal policies were very bad, and "bellyached" about them very loudly indeed. Of course, men may change their minds, but there is reason to believe that Mr. Kennedy did not think of the full implications of his remarks and that they illustrate once more the unwisdom of a public man making spontaneous speeches.

FOR EXAMPLE, there was that little touch in which he spoke of pending upon how many of the changes would be undertaken, would range, it was shown in the report, from $50,000 to $95,000. A "first class job" could be obtained for between $70,000 and $85,000.

Changes recommended included the installation of a new boiler, a new coal pulverizer, a water softener, and a larger coal conveyor. Considerable relocation of existing equipment was also suggested as desirable, and an addition of sixty feet should be made to the present building.

Council took no action on the recommendations, but is holding plans for improvement under advisement, pending further study of the situation.

Gift Suggestions Are Numerous In Bristol

larger number of shoppers, and to say the stock has been increased considerably is putting it mildly. There is not a merchant in the borough, but who has added greatly to his wares, both in variety and quantity, in order to cater to those who are sharing the joy of the Christmas season with others.

A shopping trek in Bristol will bring good results, giving both satisfaction and financial saving.

House coats are brought to the fore at Smith's Model Shop, 412 Mill street. Just a glance in the display window will give an idea of the holiday variety in this particular line. Shown at present are one in pale rose, with zipper opening from the neck to the hem-line; another in deep rose moiré silk; and a third in gold-toned rayon, with shirring being used lavishly about the yoke. To match this there is a pair of pajamas. What would be more pleasing to the lady of the house than such a lovely lounging set?

Among the suggestions for the male members of the family, there might be purchased one of the many containers of tobacco, at Straus' Cut Rate Store. Smokers are always ready with a smile when given a box of their favorite tobacco, and will also welcome a fine pipe. For those who like cigars or cigarettes, Straus has attractive Christmas packages, in various sizes.

Still keeping the men in mind, there is to be found at the jewelry store of F. E. Bayliss, 307 Mill street, a black cowhide case, containing set of military brushes in black with trim of silver, a nail file and a comb. This zipper case is most compact and smart looking, and will make a lasting gift.

Among the first thoughts at the holiday season are greeting cards, and these can be found in any variety and style at Norman's Stationery, 416 Mill street. The Edgar Guest cards, with such touching verses; others with Biblical verses; some with more general greetings, and comic cards—all are to be found at Norman's. And while buying cards, the wrapping materials can be secured at the same time. Whether it be holiday wrapping paper, ribbon, tags, seals, or decorative items—Norman's have such in many styles and colors.

Turning attention to the children, and the thought of toys, Wilson's Hardware store, 404 Mill street, comes to mind. Tots find this store's windows a paradise, and may be seen almost any hour of the day gazing at the gaily painted articles beyond the glass. A steam shovel in bright green and red, with the realistic truck body to haul it from place to place, commands the attention of the small boys; while the older ones cast longing eyes on boxing gloves which dangle from the ceiling. And for enjoyment of the entire family there is a motion picture projector.

And these are just a half dozen of the scores upon scores of articles which local merchants are suggesting in order to complete those Christmas lists.

It costs only 25 cents to prove that Courier classified ads pay.

"PEACHY" CROP

Many an emergency shelf should boast a bumper array of canned peaches this Winter, judging by statistics on the heavy crop. New York State alone had a crop of 1,506,000 bushels, compared with last season's light yield of 1,232,000. Heavy yields were reported from other Eastern peach states, so that the total production in the country was estimated at 25 per cent more than last year's crop and four per cent greater than the 1928-32 average.

The country's pear crop was 12 per cent greater than last year, although it averaged the same as last year's in New York State. The state's grape crop was 85,800 tons, a gain of 74 per cent over the light yield in 1936. Grape production jumped 41 per cent in the states of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan, statistics show.

"PUSHES" WAY TO JAIL

SEATTLE, Wash. — (INS) — B. A. Johnson believes he is one of the few men who ever "pushed their way into jail."

A former operator of a "tango checkers" game, he was arrested on a gambling charge in a test case.

"When the prosecutor's investigators raided our club, I was bundled into the automobile of Pat Hughes, one of the deputies, and told I'd have to be booked at the county jail," Johnson said.

"The machine wouldn't go, so I got out and shoved—and pushed my way into jail."

Pumpkin Drop Cookies

Here is an unusual recipe for pumpkin, which should make moist cookies:

Cream one-half cup shortening with one cup sugar. Add one cup of sieved cooked pumpkin. Blend into this two and one-fourths teaspoons of baking powder, one teaspoon of cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon each of ginger and nutmeg and one-half teaspoon salt. Add one-half teaspoon of vanilla.

If desired, add one cup of raisins and one-half cup chopped nuts. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees F. for about 15 minutes. This will make two dozen plump cookies, which should have much the same spicy flavor as pumpkin pie.

Squash Patties

Here is an unusual winter squash recipe which calls for the popular French frying method which you have watched in Cooking School.

One and one-half cups chopped roasted peanuts, one teaspoon onion juice, one tablespoon milk, two tablespoons melted butter, two cups cooked sieved winter squash, one-half cup fine dry crumbs, and some additional crumbs, one egg, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, shortening, green pepper sauce.

Combine peanuts, squash, onion juice, the half cup crumbs, egg yolks, milk, melted butter, salt and pepper. Form into small round cakes, or croquettes. Dip in egg whites, slightly beaten and mixed with one-fourth cup water. Dip in fine dry bread crumbs. Fry in deep pure shortening, which is hot enough to brown a cube of bread in 55 seconds. Drain on crumpled paper napkins, or towels. These are sufficiently substantial to serve as a main dish, either plain, or with green pepper sauce.

Date Walnut Loaf

Dates and nuts were made for each other—and this recipe should be made for your family. Chewy dates and crunchy nuts combine to make a delicious loaf that may be used as cake or pudding. Serve it plain, or with cream, or fruit sauce. It is nourishing, too, for cold days.

Four egg yolks, beaten; one cup sugar, one cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, two pounds chopped walnuts, two packages pasteurized dates, chopped; four egg whites, beaten; one teaspoon vanilla. (One-half quantity may be used for small loaf, although the dates keep this moist.)

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Add sugar gradually and continue beating until smooth. Stir in flour, which has been sifted with baking powder and salt. Add dates and walnuts alternately with stiffly beaten egg whites and vanilla, mixing thoroughly after each addition.

Pour in greased and floured loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for one hour. Cool on cake rack before using.

Apple Snow

Here is a new method for this healthful and inexpensive dessert, which usually calls for grated fresh apple. Cooking, combined with the lemon, prevents discoloration. Apple snow makes a delicious icing for chocolate cake, and may be served with a rich custard, with a plain gelatine, or with cream.

One and one-half pounds tart apples, two egg whites, one lemon, two ounces sugar. Peel and cut the apples and peel lemon. Add the lemon peel to the apples and cook them to a pulp with a little water. When cooked, remove lemon peel. Beat vigorously and set aside to cool. Whip the egg whites stiffly, add sugar, beat again, and fold into apple mixture.

Cranberry Conserve

One quart cranberries, two-thirds cup cold water, two-thirds cup boiling water, one-fourth pound seeded raisins, one-half pound English walnut meats, one orange, one and one-half pounds sugar.

Pick over and wash cranberries. Add cold water and boil until the skins break. Force through a strainer and add boiling water, seeded raisins, thinly-sliced orange and sugar. The orange skin also is used, the full slices being cut in small pieces. Again bring to the boiling point and simmer 20 minutes. Add nut meats, cut in pieces. Cool, fill glasses and seal. The raisins may be omitted from this recipe and two oranges may be used for stronger orange flavor.

Cranberry Jelly With Celery

Four cups cranberries, two cups sugar, one cup boiling water, one and one-half cups celery, cut fine. Pick over and wash cranberries. Add sugar and water and boil 20 minutes. Strain. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in one and one-half cups celery, cut crosswise of stalks in one-eighth inch slices. Turn into large mold, or into individual molds and chill. Remove from molds and garnish with curled celery.

Sandwich Filling

Strained honey, mixed with cottage cheese, a few broken nut meats and soft butter makes a delicious filling for sandwiches for the school child's lunch box.

MANY HOLIDAY MENUS REVEAL POPULARITY OF BRUSSELS SPROUTS

Brussels Sprouts are ranking high in feast honors this year, since several home economists have chosen them as the favorite vegetable on the menu with roast turkey, with giblet gravy, cream onions, pumpkin pie and other holiday favorites.

It is important to cook these junior cabbages so that they retain their bright green color. One quart will serve six people, and this year they are a real economy, as well as an easy vegetable to prepare.

Remove the wilted leaves and soak the sprouts 15 minutes in cold water. Drain and cook uncovered 20 minutes in boiling water. Do not add salt until the last 10 minutes of cooking time. Drain well and serve with melted butter or Hollandaise Sauce.

For a real party dish, combine the sprouts with an equal quantity of boiled chestnuts, serving with seasonings and melted butter. Remember that it is easy to peel the chestnuts, both shell and skin, if they are gashed with a sharp knife, sprinkled generously with oil or shortening and placed in a heavy pan in a very moderate oven. Shake from time to time.

Some cooks believe that a bit of sugar helps the flavor of vegetables. Try combining one quart of cooked Brussels Sprouts, sautéed in butter, with one cup cooked chestnuts, one-fourth cup butter, two teaspoons sugar, one-half cup brown stock, one-half teaspoon each salt and beef extract (dissolved beef cube may be used), few grains cayenne. Cook butter and sugar until well browned, stirring constantly. Add peeled, cooked chestnuts. Cook until brown; add sprouts, stock, seasonings.

Diced celery, sautéed in butter, also combines well with sprouts.

Daily the uses of the automatic refrigerator are growing, so that it performs an important function in preparing each course of the meal, in addition to keeping all the food at the proper temperature. One of the latest discoveries is the aid given by the icebox in preparing raised rolls, which may be prepared in advance and stored. Filling for stuffed cookies, sauces, molded vegetable or meat loaf, icebox cookies, salads and numerous desserts all are part of the icebox food crop.

ERNIE DUSEK VICTOR IN MURPHY MAT BOUT

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 9.—Ernie "The Terrible" Dusek made Harold "Millionaire" Murphy look like a pauper in winning the feature wrestling bout at the Arena last night. Ernie gained the fall in 15 minutes.

Heralded in the advance press notices as a coner in the wrestling game, Murphy failed to show any inkling of his vacated prowess in last night's encounter. The Hollywood Irishman appeared as a toy in the hands of the capable Dusek. Ernie made the roly-poly wrestler in red tights look like a dish of cherry jello in which he took great delight in shaking.

Ernie brought the rather sluggish battle to an abrupt end when he pounced on the hapless Murphy and held his shoulders to the mat for the necessary time.

George Koverly, Hollywood badman, won the semi-windup when he flattened Nick Campofreda to the mat with a body press after 11 minutes. Koverly employed his nose too ethically on the game but handicapped Nick. The fans enjoyed the several spirited exchanges both wrestlers shared, but Koverly brought the bout to a rather sudden climax when he felled Nick with a stinging blow on the chin.

Rebel Rob Russell and Bobby Roberts staged what proved to be the best bout on the card in the third match. Russell finally won the match after 21 minutes with a body press. Both wrestlers are "villains" at the local palace of grunt and groan, but the fans were pulling for Roberts last night.

Jack Holland, popular Hollywood favorite, was awarded the decision after 30 minutes in the second bout when the referee disqualified Jack Hader, Kansas City rowdy. Bronco Valdez, colorful Mexican, made his debut at the local arena a successful one by taking the opener over Boris Demitroff.

A meeting of the players of the Bristol Recreation football team will be held this evening at the Recreation Center at 8 o'clock. Plans will be discussed for the annual team banquet. Managers, coaches and all players are urged to be present.

FERRIS ANGLES FOR THE RUNNING ACES

By Pat Robinson
(N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(INS)—The coming indoor track season will have a strong international flavor if the current negotiations of Dan Ferris bear fruit.

The cherubic, silver-thatched national secretary of the A. A. U., is trying to induce the outstanding stars of several European countries to test their prowess against America's best in Madison Square Garden this winter and is hopeful that several of them will accept his invitation.

Dan is particularly eager to land Stan Wooderson, the English bank clerk, who ran the mile in 4:06.6 to break Glen Cunningham's world record this summer.

Dan foresees the greatest mile race of all time when and if Wooderson hooks up with Cunningham, San Romani, Lash and Fenske.

"That quintet should produce another record," says Dan. "Cunningham is by no means through and I expect him to be as fast as he ever was. The Kansan has always been at his best when the going was toughest and I doubt very much that Wooderson or anybody else can take him over the eight furlong route.

"Lash is a more experienced and therefore a smarter runner now than he was a year ago and I believe he has it in him to break Wooderson's mark.

"San Romani is just as good as ever and more eager than ever to take Cunningham. He feels confident that he will sweep the boards in all mile events this year and I shouldn't care to bet that he won't fulfill his ambition.

"Fenske was good enough to run in this kind of company last season and he should naturally show some improvement."

Dan doesn't believe the limit has been reached in record-breaking.

"Years ago," he said, "I thought we had seen the best a human being could do when the boys cracked 4:10 for a mile. I also thought the ceiling had been reached when they went over 14 feet in the pole vault.

"Now nothing surprises me. I wouldn't bat an eye if they do 15 feet in the pole vault this winter or run a 9-second century or a 4-minute mile.

"I haven't the slightest idea what the ultimate is in human endurance or speed. Every time a record goes overboard we all think the limit has been reached. And maybe it has for the individual who made it. But along comes a faster man and we have another mark.

"The only thing I'm sure of is that the boys of today seem to be growing taller and heavier and therefore it is not surprising that in general their averages are better."

HULMEVILLE

The December session of Hulmeville Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. Joseph O. Canby, last evening, with Mrs. Canby presiding during the business meeting. The speaker of the evening was Miss Marian Longshore, Langhorne, county chairman of the International Relations committee. Miss Longshore following her brief message, conducted an informal discussion on international relations. She urged members to write to representatives in Washington, urging them to vote to have the Ludlow bill brought out of committee. Conditions in the warring countries were discussed, and possible solutions for world peace considered. The meeting was opened with a period of silence following which Mrs. Edward Davis read a prayer by the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick. A number of "Sunshine Bags," filled for veterans in hospitals, were gathered at the session. These will be forwarded by Mrs. Edwin W. Henry, Sr., for distribution by Christmas time. Results of the poster contest conducted among seventh and eighth grade pupils of Hulmeville school were announced to the members, the prizes to be awarded in the school tomorrow. Dish cloths were distributed, these to be sold by mem-

DOVER, O.—(INS)—James Harpster, Holmes county farmer, is trying to prove there's something new—at least under the Ohio sun.

Harpster has received a shipment of Caracul sheep, developed for manufacture of caracul, Persian lamb and astrakhan. He's not sure the sheep will thrive in this section of the country, but he's trying the experiment anyway.

CANTON, O.—(INS)—Four nuns who have spent a collective total of 150 years in the Sisters of St. Augustine were honored by the order with numerous gifts and service awards. The nuns and their years of service are: Sister Marcelline, 50; Sister Armina, 5; Sister Gabriel, 25; Sister Angelina, 25.

name of the individual you prefer, a figure "1" is placed after his or her name, and a figure "2" after the second choice, and so on.

"I do not like the vote counting system under proportional representation," added the Newtown resident in New York City, it was stated, 28 days were required to count the councilmanic vote, with the cost amounting to $20,000 a day for the 28 days. "It is too complicated" was another thing scored against the system.

Mrs. John W. Cooper, Pineville, president of the council, occupied the chair. She stated there will be no sessions during January or February, but that the educational meetings will be conducted during March, April and May. Mrs. Cooper gave a brief account of the sessions of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, held recently in the state capital. Mrs. A. Oscar Martin, county membership chairman, was presented with a trophy pin, this being brought from the Harrisburg sessions by Mrs. Cooper for presentation to Mrs. Martin in appreciation for her council membership activities.

Mrs. Frank J. Linton, Mrs. William Loughrey, Newtown; Mrs. W. Carlisle Hobensack, Doylestown, also gave accounts of the Harrisburg meetings.

care of all prints for criminal and civil identification.

"Every person in this club and all other people should be finger-printed," Sergeant Schultz declared.

Photography, the speaker pointed out, was used at first as the leading manner of identification. This is not positive. Criminals can change their looks by surgery and other methods, he explained.

The Bertillon system is also obsolete and is of no use in identifying a person after the age of maturity has been reached. This system of identification was started by Alphonse Bertillon, French anthropologist. It is a system for the identification of persons by a physical description based upon anthropometric measurements, notes of markings, deformities, color, impression of thumb lines, and other ways.

"The only positive identification known to modern sciences is finger-printing; there are no two finger-prints alike," Sergeant Schultz declared.

Finger-printing in a fashion has been going on for hundreds of years but it was enlarged upon by a representative of the world-famous Scotland Yards.

In the New Jersey State Police, finger-prints are placed in a filing system. The department does not bother with names just as long as they have the prints. A man can have fifty aliases; that will not prevent his identification if his fingerprint is available.

"Your finger prints never change from the time you are born until you die," the speaker continued.

Finger-prints are used for several purposes in addition to criminal identification, he explained. Finger-prints of people who lost their lives in the Morro Castle disaster, would have saved a lot of trouble and worry, he said. Taking of finger-prints for latent prints at the scene of a crime, is an important work of the New Jersey State trooper. The department has been very successful in the taking of latent prints in solving crimes in New Jersey. Sergeant Schultz informed his listeners.

Sergeant Schultz informed members of the club who were in the World War, all of whom had their finger-prints taken, that prints of that nature are on file in the War Department but are not available for criminal or civil identification purposes, only for strict personal business pertaining to the individual veteran.

The speaker advised all persons to go to their nearest State Police, Motor Police or local police stations, have their prints taken and placed on record. There is no charge of finger-prints. There are 8,000,000 finger-prints on file in Washington at the present time. In a file of 25,000 prints in New Jersey, it takes less than a minute to find the desired print, once the details are classified and properly read.
